

ABSTRACT

[0058] A method and apparatus are disclosed herein for characterizing a network connection by receiving network connection parameters, receiving state variable information pertaining to the network connection according to the network connection parameters, sensing when the network connection is initiated according to the state variable information, and storing the state variable information.